Executing the perfect wedding day—or wedding weekend—is all in the organization and logistics. But, a real-deal event planner can take on the styling and design of all of your event's elements—from lush tablescapes to a perfectly designed stationary suite to memorable welcome bags and expertly crafted favors. When looking to tackle any event, from a luxe celebration in New York City to an outdoor affair in Napa Valley, or even a multi-cultural wedding weekend in Southeast Asia, these are the names in the wedding planning biz that can take on the most creative of challenges and elevate any expectation. The names on this list will help you achieve the wedding day you've been picturing all along (or didn't know you wanted), offering innovative ideas to raise the bar and special touches that will leave your guests raving. Here are the best names in the events industry—straight from our rolodex.

David Reinhard Events

Company Name: David Reinhard Events & Consulting

Home Base: New York, NY

Specialties Include: Face time, discretion and privacy. "We limit the number of weddings and events we take on each year so we can dedicate the time needed to plan and execute a flawless event. Clients work directly with owners Ann David or Nicky Reinhard who are with them every step of the way—from the first meeting to the actual event."

Signature Aesthetic: A unique twist on tradition combined with understated elegance. "We do not have a planning formula that is applied to each couple. Instead, we ask our clients to think about what they want their guests to say about the wedding at the end of the night."

Dream Client: Those whose weddings entail complicated logistics, like "a venue that has never hosted a wedding, a tent wedding at a private home or a destination wedding weekend." While they also plan weddings at traditional venues, "our job is to add distinctive details that represent the couple and set their wedding apart."

Brides of Note: Dylan Lauren—and most recently, Bridget Moynahan.
